HIS HABITS. Mr. Jefferson was always an early riserarose at daybreak or before. The sun never Glasscock, James Moffett, George W. Brown, found him in bed. I used sometimes to think, Charles R. He never had a servant make a fire in his room in the morning, or at any other time, when he was at home. He always had a box filled with nice dry wood in his room, and when he wanted fire, he would open it and put on the wood. He would always have a good many ashes in his fire-place, and when he went out he would cover his fire up very carefully, and when he came back he would uncover the coals and make on a fire for him- J. I never saw a card in the house at Monticello, and I had particular orders from him to suppress cardplaying among the negroes, who, you know, are generally very fond of it. I never saw any dancing in his house, and if there had been any there during the twenty years I was

HIS FAVORITE FOOD. When he was coming home from Washington, I generally knew it, and got ready for him, and waited at the house to give him the keys. After saving, "How are all?" and talking awhile, he would say, "What have you got that is good?" I knew mighty well what suited him. He was especially found of Guinea fowls; and for meat, he preferred good beef, mutton and lambs. Those broad-tailed sheep I told you about made the finest mutton I ever saw. Meriweather Lewis's mother made very nice hams, and every year I used C. P. Suman, James Houghton, William P. Lasto get a few from her for his special use. A Russian Duel.

A letter from St. Petersburg, in the Progress, of Lyons, gives the following details of the death of General Gerstenweig, military commander of Warsaw, which, it may be remembered, took place some months since: "Three of the aides-de-camp of General Count Lambert, the Emperor's Lieutenant in Poland, hearing a loud altercation in the cab- Taylor, Joseph F. It was, therefore, decided that lots should be drawn by the two adversaries as to which of them should put an end to his own existence. That sad formality took place with the greatest coolness-for both generals were models of bravery -and the lot fell on General Gerstenweig. who, turning to Count Lambert, said, in a firm Hubler, George Nelson, Arthur F. In addition to the pay as above stated, one ration per day and an abunaant supply of good clothing is allowed to every soldier. Quarters, fuel and medical attendance are always provided by the Government without deduction from the soldier's pay. If a soldier should become disabled in the line of his duties, the law provides for him a pension, or he may, if he prefer it, obtain admission into the Military Asylum, which will afford him a comfortable home so long as he may wish to receive its benefits.

To the above pay for private soldiers must be added the additional $2 a month to be paid during service, the $100 bounty at the end of the war, which has already been provided for, and the quarter section of land that Congress will provide for at its coming session. The bounty and land apply to officers and privates alike.

Worthy of Merit. Among the many remedies offered to the public under be head of Patent Medicines, it is a relief to know that some of them are valuable preparations—will do what is claimed for them—and are worthy of use and a place in every family. Belonging to this class may be mentioned Dr Roback's Scandinsvian Remedles—Blood Purifier and Blood Pills—which are most excellent preparations, and have the desired effect in all cases for which their use is witness to this, having used them in our family with the best effects. We are also acquainted with many who speak voluntarily in praise of these medicines. One of our leading business men says that by the use of only four bottles of Purifier he received more than one hundred dollars worth of benefit. His difficulty was Dyspepsia. We express our thanks for a liberal present of hese remedies for use in our family.
